Theme: Trees

"Whenever my heart is heavy,
And the future hard to see,
I wander up on the hillside
To the shade of an old oak tree."

FOREWORD

From the dawn of civilization, when prehistoric man converted leafy monarchs into rude homes, to the present era which has witnessed the ruthless commercial exploitation of vast forests, trees have mutely expounded the ideals of perfect symmetry and constant growth. The modern high school, itself, concretely emphasizes the successful fusing of these admirable p.inciples.

Although once the tree of scholastic development was but a denuded trunk, stunted by limited curricular and hidebound concepts, it has now sprouted into a verdant growth of idealistic balance and broadened service. The sturdy base formed by the three R's has been supplemented by healthy shoots of physical training, and mechanical rudimentary practice, artistic creation, and creative beginnings. Into its salutary shade stumbles the adolescent freshman, and from its fostering foliage strides the tempered form of the youthful senior.

Yet graduation is not the end but the beginning. Even as a tree, its final shape assumed, continues its growth, increasing in its own particular usefulness and adding to its especial beauty, so the senior, mentally perfected, must enter upon adult life, follow his chosen field, and perpetually build upon his educational structure.

Thus, it is on that foundation of balance, and with that spirit of living progress so inherent in the subject of its theme and so well exemplified by modern educational practices that this yearbook has been molded. Herein are permanently gathered the variegated leaves of activity strewn by the virile tree of 1937. Through the medium of printed page and artistic illustration, freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior history; scholastic, athletic, musical, dramatic, and literary accomplishment are bound in harmonious proportion. Yet the purpose of this volume is not realized with its mere material completion. Our sincere hope is that, with the fleeting years, this TOTEM may ever represent the most precious of all possessions, a growing treasure.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

The English course, perhaps more than any other, may be likened to a beautiful and symmetrical tree deeply rooted in the culture of the ages. So we consider reading and writing the trunk of the tree with correct sentence structure, spelling, letter writing, grammar, composition, interpretation, memorization, and rhetoric forming its branches.

And the student, like the tree, grows mentally and morally as he adds to his fundamental knowledge of English the ability to enjoy the discussion of poetry, essays, plays, and novels. He learns to develop his personality through the reading of biography and autobiography where he becomes, for a time, "one of a high company", and to further develop that personality through informal class discussions of those books he has read, or of homework assignments, or of experiences.

He learns, too, to increase the charm of his speaking voice through practice in correct pronunciation, voice placement for tone quality, and in clear, courteous enunciation.

Through writing he learns to develop his imagination and to express in clear, concise, and forceful English, thoughts either fanciful or imaginative. Thus at the end of four years, the student finds firmly rooted within himself a love and appreciation for the beautiful in the world of literature and living.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

The Commercial Department offers ambitious and earnest students an excellent chance to train themselves for positions in the business world, where opportunities are constantly open for those who are "prepared". Many of our former students have received good positions in the offices of business men in the city, and excellent reports from these men show fully the efficiency of this department.

Many studies are offered, including arithmetic for the freshmen, and a half-year course in business arithmetic for seniors, bookkeeping the second and third year, with shorthand and typewriting beginning the third year and extending through the senior year. Commercial English and law, accounting, and economics are also available. Penmanship is taught by Mr. Rowe and is of decided importance.

An honor course in shorthand known as the selective group, is composed only of pupils who have shown exceptional ability in first year shorthand and who have attained high marks in English for the three previous years. The typists for the TOTEM and the Highlights are chosen from the advanced classes in typewriting, and the morning bulletin is also prepared by pupils who cut the stencils and run them off on the mimeograph machine each day, thus giving the pupils practical experience in the use of these machines and all other equipment.

HISTORY AND HOME ECONOMICS

Our History Department includes Ancient, European, English, United States, Civics, and Current History. American History presents our national and economic growth, and gives the student a more thorough understanding of his own government by including a course in Civics. It is the further aim of the department to have the students see in our Stars and Stripes a democracy derived from all the worthwhile contributions of the ancients; from the Hebrew, the worship of one God; from the Greek, the love of art; from the Roman, law and obedience; and finally, from the Teuton, character and honesty.

The Home Economics Department offers a complete study of the domestic arts, including cooking, sewing, household management, and dietetics. The Freshman course consists of the fundamentals of sewing and cooking, the basic principles in clothing, and the chemical elements in foodstuffs, with related courses in hygiene and science. Elective to Sophomores is a Home Management Problem in foods and interior decorating. The Senior clothing classes emphasize tailor-made garments and a hand-made layette, as well as a health course. Senior food classes serve nourishing food attractively prepared at minimum cost four times weekly at noons to teachers. When this class is completed, the graduates will have learned the complete equipment and efficient management of the modern American home.

VOCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

Vocational work is divided into two groups, the Printing under Mr. Cecil Farrar, and Vocational work under Mr. Little. In our Printing Department the student is not only trained to set up type and run presses, but also to arrange material attractively for all our school programs and schedules. The Mechanical Drawing is divided into two classes, the beginners and the advanced, under Mr. Murphy and Mr. Perkins. In the former the student learns to read drawings and blue prints. In the latter, he is prepared to qualify as a mechanical draftsman.

With Mr. Cobb at the helm, the students in the Machine shop are taught the art of drilling, lathe work, planer and shaper work, and thread cutting, while, in the Woodworking Department next door, Mr. Cates offers a splendid course in cabinet making, wood turning, and moulding. Boys in the Electricity Laboratory are trained by Mr. Little in the care and operation of generators and electric motors, in wiring, and the basic function of electricity; or, under the guidance of Mr. Tarr, are prepared in the Auto-Mechanics course for the operation, care, and repair of the automobile, the boys practicing their knowledge on used cars.

Mr. Flanagan, Mr. Conroy, and Mr. Fitzpatrick, in addition to coaching, also teach the subjects related to vocational work, and in the fine arts course, Mr. William Thompson guides the young artist.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

Under the direction of Mr. William Simonton, the Science department offers a variety of subjects. For the students of the general, commercial, or shop courses, hygiene, general science, biology, or geography are offered. These branches are taught by Miss Wiswell, Miss Mann, Miss Harvey, Mr. Stevens and Mr. Means, who is also an assistant coach. Miss Wescott, in addition to her gymnasium work, has some classes. College Chemistry and Physics are offered under Mr. Simonton and Mr. Rosenthal to the College or Scientific students as well as a course in general chemistry. These science laboratories are busy places five days of the week as experiments are carried on and lectures given.

In preparation for College Chemistry, students usually find their knowledge of mathematics most helpful. Miss Martha B. Hopkins is head of this department which includes Algebra and Geometry. Mathematics is required all four years for the college preparatory student, review algebra being stressed the fourth year. The teachers are Miss Helen C. Stetson. Mr. John McDaniel, and Mr. Edgar Stoddard. The value of their work may be summed up in a statement made by Mr. Henry Link, "This is one group of subjects which has been found to have a favorable effect on personality. Mathematics involves the development of the most precise, most

Edgar W. Stoddard

LANGUAGES AND ARTS

Students of the languages may consider themselves fortunate in having an opportunity to choose from a long list of ancient and modern languages as French, Spanish, and German are offered in the modern language course, and Latin and Greek in the college course. Miss Welch is the head of the French and German Departments and is assisted by Mrs. Damren, Miss Weeks, and Miss Broe who teach French; and by Miss Bigelow in German. Miss Potter heads the Spanish Department, with Mr. Casey as assistant. It is the purpose of the Modern Language Department, aside from the actual study of the languages, to give each student an understanding of the French, German, and Spanish people, their history and customs.

The Classical Department is headed by Mrs. Augusta B. Paine, who has, as her assistants in Latin, Mrs. Burnham and Miss Mann. Both Miss Marchant and Mr. McDonnell are teachers of Greek, Portland High being one of the three Maine schools to offer this subject. The Classical studies furnish culture and develop in the students a love of the classics and of all for which they stand.

Miss Emily Chase and Mr. Gaudreau have charge of music, the former working with the students of voice and the orchestra, the latter directing the band. Miss Thompson is Art Supervisor of the city schools and was formerly head of our own Art Department.

ADMINISTRATION AND SPECIALS

Year after year the office force carries on quietly and efficiently, looking after details in the administration of our citizen school. Miss Antonia M. Curtis, Dean of Girls, and Secretary to Mr. Lowe, has charge of Senior records and is ably assisted by Mrs. Rena Edwards who handles ranks and scheduling, and by Mrs. Marie O'Connell whose forte is attendance records.

Our library of more than nine thousand books is graciously presided over by Miss Helen V. Robinson who is always willing to assist students or teachers. Miss Lena Shorey, Supervisor of Home Economics, capably dominates the varied branches of this home-making department, while Mrs. Pearl C. Andrews, teacher of English, also conducts public speaking classes, is faculty adviser of the Dramatic Club, and acts as coach of Dramatics.

In the field of military tactics and health education, we find Major Karl Palmer who is instructor in Military Science, and Mr. John L. Lee, who looks after the welfare of the boys through his courses in physical education and who also assists Coach Flanagan in football.

Miss Wescott, in addition to geography classes, has charge of the girls' physical education and is assisted in the gymnasium by Miss Mary Bosworth who is also faculty adviser of the riding club. Miss Dorothy Rowe fills the post of coach of girls' hockey and basketball, and is also assistant tennis coach.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The Class of 1937 has chosen "Trees" for its theme. To those of us who have learned to love trees, the subject brings many suggestions. As far back as Bible days, David, the maker of Psalms, compared a good man's life to a fine tree, saying, "And he shall be like a tree, planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season. His leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

In offering us the tree, Nature has been very kind, for trees have been an important factor in our own life and growth. Without trees life would be very difficult. Since the earliest times, trees have served mankind as a means of shelter and protection. Then, too, they have provided us with fruit and nuts, highly desirable foods. In our own American homes trees have been indispensable, since almost every piece of furniture is made from wood. But perhaps the tree's greatest merit lies in the beauty it adds to Nature's landscape. Not only has this beauty made Nature lovers create poetry and prose to adorn our literature, but it has attracted painters, and other artists. What could offer greater inspiration to a writer or painter than a magnificent oak or a stately pine? Joyce Kilmer was, perhaps, so inspired, when he wrote his memorable poem, "Trees."

Not only are trees indispensable to our living, but they also have a definite value as memorials of friendship and remembrance. The United States has received from foreign nations tokens of friendship. Among them none has given greater pleasure to countless thousands than the Japanese gift of the famous cherry trees to the city of Washington in 1912. Only the Japanese, a people who love the beautiful, could have thought of such a gracious gift. Today adorning the Tidal Basin of the Potomac, are more than seven hundred of these cherry trees.

In London and other parts of England, Coronation trees are being planted which will be especially distinguished. The Coronation Planting Committee has issued plaques for all such trees bearing the following lettering: "Coronation Planting Committee 1937. Planted to Commemorate the Coronation of King George VI."

However, all these gifts of the tree have not been overlooked, for man has tried by individual and by organized means to show his appreciation. In the United States and certain other countries, the people have begun to realize the dangerous destruction of the forests. To prevent this loss, the United States has appropriated tracts of land for forest reservations. Moreover, certain states have legalized a day, known as Arbor Day for the planting of trees.

In closing, I would, as President of the class of 1937, leave with you this thought, that even as the tree, growing in strength and usefulness becomes more indispensable to mankind each year of its life, so may you, growing in knowledge and wisdom, fulfill to the utmost degree the destiny for which you are created, that of making the world a better place because you have lived in it.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

"Absent-minded Judy", the play presented by the class of 1937 as their contribution to the long parade of excellent annual class plays, was a buoyant, well enacted comedy. The plot of this three-act farce centers about the impecunious Joyce family. Anne Naughton takes the part of Mrs. Joyce, a hypochondriac; Muriel Googins plays absent-minded Judy; and Edward Turner is air-minded Jerome. When an accident prevents Jerry from making a flight sponsored by Joseph Oliver, as Stephen Brady, the president of an airplane company, Marie Gable, played by Frances Zolov, brings the news that Judy is making the flight for him. Hearing of the flight, Doris Hasson, taking the part of Abigail Houston, offers Judy a medal for her bravery and courage. This, it seems, is the last straw, and she confesses that Stephen made the flight.

Standing: Robert Whitcomb, Edward Turner, David Astor, Phillip Palmer.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

Instigated by the scoffing remarks of Phyllis Potter as Betty Lou, the town flapper who later marries Stephen, Judy learns to fly and makes a successful flight from New York to Paris and back. David Astor as Dr. Marks, the family physician who secretly loves Mrs. Joyce, finally succumbs to the "air-craze" and buys a plane. Merton Marks, played by Phillip Palmer, spurned in marriage by Judy, departs, but returns with prospects of great wealth. Aunt Rhoda, the beloved servant of the Joyces was excellently portrayed by Madelaine Conley, and Lemuel Hardy, the unpopular bill collector, played by Robert Whitcomb, gets his just deserts by marrying Marie Gable, the town gossip. The play ends happily, of course, in the double wedding of Mrs. Joyce and Dr. Marks, and Judy and Merton.

Due honors go not only to Mrs. Pearl C. Andrews for her excellent directing and to the cast for their skillful portrayals, but also to the management.

CLASSES

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

JUNIOR CLASS

Sophomores yesterday, Juniors today, Seniors tomorrow. The capable Junior class has thus far finished two years of its four-year high school course, and is now nearing the completion of its third year. Judging from its past record, there is every reason to believe that next year the present Junior class will take over and execute Senior duties to the approval of all. In the fall the room chairmen were elected and later the class members selected from their number those who were to lead them through the year, choosing Walter Quinn as their president and supporting him with an able staff consisting of Mel D'Arcangelo, vice-president, Robert Seymour, treasurer, and Elizabeth Honan, secretary, and an efficient executive board.

The athletic season started off, as always, with football, and Mel D'Arcangelo, Walter Quinn, Dick Carson, and Joe Fisher were to be seen practicing every day on the gridiron. When the football curtain finally rang down on the end of the season, basketball came along in order, beckoning to its fold the height of Bill Ross, the quick eye of Dick Carson, and the fleet foot of Joe Fisher, all of whom proved to be of championship caliber.

On the cinder path and saucer, the representatives of the class were many and those who gained recognition were Bob McGlone, a newcomer to the school, and a standout in many different events; John DeGrasse, whose specialty is the senior dash; and Chet Dubowick, taking as his stand the forty-yard dash and the relay. The tennis squad has an outstanding aspirant in Charles Ireland who is the manager of this year's team, and an orator of note. The swimming team was assisted in winning its championship by two able

Juniors; namely, Warren Blake, who captains the squad next year, and Charles Ferris, whose ability in the 220 free style was marked. Both will undoubtedly serve in maintaining Portland High's swimming supremacy.

The girls, too, have aided in making the class worthy of the distinction it has gained in the history of Junior classes, contributing their talents in both the athletic and scholastic fields. In several meets, this year, many points of the girls' swimming team were achieved by the Junior members of the troupe. The team was led by Dot McLewin, a strong swimmer. Another mermaid of renown was Barbara Currier whose ability enabled her to enter many of the tank activities, while Betty McDowell was one of the team's divers.

The newly formed Riding Club ranked high in the favor of third year girls, many of whom showed much progress in this equestrian sport. Those who took the hurdles were Betty Honan, Margaret Alexander, Barbara Quinn, and Kay Graff. Norma Stockbridge, Kay Flaherty, Libbey Diamon, and Marion Williams are a few of the many tennis enthusiasts who reported regularly for practice, and the intramural basketball organization found Dot Walp and Barbara Catterson on the floor regularly.

The Red Cross Council and debating squad, each received their portion of Junior talent in aiding them to attain their usual success. Staton Curtis and Sydney Cox worked on the council, while Gladys Bickmore exerted her ability on both organizations. So this year, the class has demonstrated its executive ability to such an extent that there is no doubt but it will ably fulfill the coming duties with efficiency and dispatch, adding many new glories.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Once again the sophomore class stands out as being especially inclined toward the athletic side of school life. Last fall, Tony Peverada, Cecil Hinds, Edward Amato, Fernando Giobbi, George Wing, and Joseph Nappi were exceedingly active on the gridiron. The ranks of the 1937 basketball teams were swelled by Joseph Crozier, Edward Amato, William Fox, Cecil Hinds, Tony Peverada, Philip Vanier, and Fernando Giobbi. The boys' tennis teams claim Donald Herman, a brilliant player as No. 1 man; while the championship swimming team is justly proud to be able to claim Charlie Griffin, State champion in the 220 free style; Cecil Hinds, an outstanding prospect for the 100; Bernard Samuels, a promising swimmer in the 50, and Nunzio Giampetruzzi. Our track team has excellent prospect in the persons of Edward Montgomery and Weston Portas.

We also find the girls turning out in large numbers for sports. So many were out for basketball that the names cannot be recorded here. Glancing at the list of swimming lassies, we find the names of Margaret Crozier, Frances Reardon, Nancy Randall, Norma Cope, Patricia Whipple, Ruth Russell, and Marian Blake, while the names of Harriet Taylor, Rebecca Agger, Edith Palmer, Patricia Whipple, and Nancy Randall appear on the roster of the girls' tennis team. On the Red Cross Committee, we find Margaret Crozier, Dorothy Moran, John Jaques, and Robert Hay serving loyally. The last three were also members of the radio cast. Such a well rounded class will certainly embark on its Junior year with flying colors and bring more honors to the "Wearers of the Blue", in scholarship as well as in athletics.

FRESHMAN ROOM CHAIRMEN

Sitting: Madeline McShea, Evangeline Libby, Hazel Cameron, Betty Greene, Phyllis Wildes, Shirley Ansell, Cecile Albert.

Standing: John DiBiase, Raymond Barry, Herbert Fenderson, Robert Fuller, Alfred Klamen, Francis Lucey, Donald E. Morris.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Since the class of 1940 entered the portals of Portland High School last fall, the members have branched out in all directions. After the room chairmen were chosen, many of the youngsters availed themselves of the opportunity to join various organizations. Sixty enrolled in the Classical Forum, and Richard Boyer, Norman Douglas, Emilio DiBiase, Doris Jordan, Lloyd Kaler, Walter Kozineski, Lloyd McKay, Timothy Osborne, Gertrude Percey, and Tomassina Lancia joined the Philatelic Society. Marie Zukunft, Priscilla Higgins, Edward Pennell, and Timothy Osborne were chosen as Freshmen members of the Junior Red Cross Council. Debating claimed Despina Doukas, the first girl to win a place on the varsity team in ten years, while Timothy Osborne had the honor of being the only Freshman to take part in the radio play given over WCSH. The musical branches of the school were strengthened by Orlando Sisti, Adeline Montebello, Margaret Lund, Marjorie Reed, Leroy Nason, Floyd Pelletier, Clifton Roberts, Constance Marr, Thomas Gallant, and Frederick Dickson, orchestra; and Louise DeLillo, Anthony Albano, Orlando Sisti, Joseph Napolitano, Kenneth Richards, and Thomas Gallant, band. A few girls became members of the Glee Club.

Because of the intramural system inaugurated this year, more than a hundred girls participated in basketball. Jacob Berenson was the only freshman to win his letter in track, but Norman Brackett, Louis Botto, Raymond Moffett, and Spiro Lano answered the call for boys' basketball, while promising candidates for football are Harold Lynch and Frederick Dickson. P. H. S. points with pride to its versatile "youngsters" as their first year closes.

ACTIVITIES

TOTEM BUSINESS BOARD

THE TOTEM

In keeping with the successful rounding of that elusive corner of both national business affairs and Portland High School's extra-curricular fortunes, the Business and Editorial Boards of the 1937 TOTEM have made a concerted effort to finance and publish a yearbook indicative of renewed prosperity. The heavy burden of acting as both Business and Advertising Manager fell upon the capable shoulders of Albert Millard, cadet and glee club officer, and an outstanding commercial student. For the first time in recent years a girl, Dorothy Gooch, who was also an important member of the Editorial Staff, was named to the responsible position of Circulation Manager. One of the most universally popular feminine members of the Senior Class, Dorothy pursued her difficult tasks with all the ardor that marked her extremely successful athletic activities.

Although unsung and unheralded, four highly efficient typists, Frances Finkelman, Ruth Gooch, Elizabeth Lagdon, and Robert Stevens proved of inestimable service in the preparation of copy. Robert, a junior, had the signal honor of being the only underclassman chosen for either board. Those who have aided Manager Millard in soliciting advertisements are Robert Stevens, Charlotte Bennett, Esther Woolf, David Astor, Gladys Bickmore, Francis Zolov, Margaret Kimball, and Charles Ireland.

An entertaining assembly, featured by a marionette show presented by Mr. Thompson of the Art Department, assisted by Mrs. Thompson, served as the opening blast of an intensive circulation drive. An inexplicable lethargy in student interest jeopardized publication of the book for a time, and only a fervent last minute appeal, carried on by the medium of home room canvasses made by members of the debating squad, and through the channels of the Highlights and daily bulletin, made this volume possible.

An outstanding Editorial Board, embracing the finest element of the graduating class, was headed by the Editor-in-Chief, David Dickson, Valedictorian and prominent orator, trackman, musician, and writer. Besides Dorothy Gooch, the feminine writers included Constance Furbush, Glee Club Officer and Hospitality Committee Chairman; Priscilla Hayes, an exceptionally apt student, who is active in Classical Forum and Dramatic Club circles; Pauline Cushing, another Thespian and brilliant scholar, as well as a Hospitality and Red Cross Committee representative and class officer; and Jeannette Driskell and Helen Sanbar, who both enjoyed considerable scholastic success.

The masculine contingent of the Board was of equally high caliber, consisting of Lloyd Gooch, an excellent student and a Classical Forum Consul; Clifford Libby, a member of track, tennis, French Club, and Dramatic Club groups; Clyde Crockett, Red Cross Committee member and high-ranking student; and Earl Adams, a better than average student and generally recognized as a truly grand fellow.

But the myriad problems continually encountered could not have been overcome without the intelligent foresight and unselfish aid of several interested faculty members. To Miss Ruth L. Sturgis, who once again masterminded proceedings with her own delightful inimitability; to Miss Grace L. Dolley, who ably assisted in an advisory capacity; to Mr. Cecil C. Farrar, the untiring and efficient manager of general mechanics; and to Mr. William E. Chapin, the indispensable financial adviser, are extended heartiest expressions of appreciation for their efforts in helping to offer Portland High School a 1937 TOTEM which will increase in value and richly merit its honored name.

BANK OFFICIALS AND TOTEM TELLERS

PORTLAND HIGH SCHOOL BANK

The school savings bank, under the supervision of Miss Hilda Ek, has continued to develop a habit of thrift among the students, and to increase the number of depositors over last year's total. Tuesday of each week is assigned as the official bank day, and many of the deposits are for the purpose of covering expenses for the yearbook, the Washington trip, or graduation, although many students simply plan their accounts for use as a handy "financial umbrella" for the proverbial rainy day.

The school bank offers an opportunity to every student to start a savings account with an amount as low as one cent. When the account has reached the total of one dollar or more, it is transferred to the Maine Savings Bank where an account is opened in the student's name. Interest on the account may be acquired, and withdrawal privileges are offered to the depositor. Transfers are made once a month.

Three days a week have been given over to the TOTEM collection work in the bank, and special bank officials were appointed to handle these accounts. During these three days a student may subscribe to the TOTEM on deposit of fifty cents and pay the remainder at the school bank in small weekly amounts.

The regular bank officials are Charlotte Bennett, supervisor; Elizabeth Lagdon, cashier; Alwilda Brewer, second teller; and Albert Millard, ledger clerk. The TOTEM Bank officials include Frances Finkelman, Patricia Halpin, Esther Belfontaine, Audrey Rendell, Marjorie MacVane, Muriel Virgin, Ruth Gooch, Dorothy Halpin, and Elizabeth Lagdon. Much credit should go also to Dorothy Gooch who has assisted so efficiently in handling TOTEM accounts.

HIGHLIGHTS EDITORS

Sitting: Edward Turner, Priscilla Hayes, Helen Sanbar, Esther Woolf, Richard Loomis.

HIGHLIGHTS

For the fourth consecutive year, the Gannett Publishing Company of Portland has reserved space each week in the Portland Evening Express for the news publications of Portland High School and the four other high schools of greater Portland. This year, however, the full page, formerly given over to news features, pictures, and notices, was reduced to five columns.

Following the current policy the faculty advisers did not appoint an editor-in-chief and an editorial staff, but chose an editor each week to take charge of that particular publication, leaving the contributing privileges open to all the students. It is quite probable that this policy will be continued indefinitely as in this way, many students have the opportunity to amplify their own writing ability, and the many different styles of writing add variety to the page, making it more interesting.

This year the group of English teachers who have acted as advisers includes: Miss Lilla A. Stetson, Miss Louise S. Dunham, Miss Grace L. Dolley, Miss Ruth L. Sturgis, Miss Adelaide Lehan, and Miss Genevieve Corey. Alternating with these, the various departments such as history, science, commercial, home economics, and vocational, have had pages devoted to their subjects. Acting editors for the past year were David Dickson, Clyde Crockett, Patrick Flaherty, Lloyd Gooch, Priscilla Hayes, Charles Ireland, Richard Loomis, Robert Meserve, Helen Sanbar, Edward Turner, and Esther Woolf. Students, alumni, and parents have all commented on the improvement of the page as a whole, and since every editor works to make his own page better than the one before, P. H. S. Highlights should consistently improve.

RED CROSS COUNCIL

RED CROSS COUNCIL

All through the year, this energetic group of Red Cross members has been constantly busy carrying out their regular program of worthwhile activities, and undertaking many new and unexpected ones.

The first big project of the year, the annual Roll Call, was completed with huge success when nearly every room in the school reported 100 per cent. Next came the annual Thanksgiving Drive, and at this time four hundred cans of food were collected to be used during the year to help needy families in the school. Early in the fall, the council started replenishing their treasury by selling Portland stickers, and the new Bulldog stickers. At the time of the flood disaster the council again "served" and gave a large donation to be used for relief of the sufferers, and several of the members generously gave of their time to help collect clothing for the flood district.

Throughout the year, the council has remembered their adopted institution, Opportunity Farm; at Christmas with a gift of money, at Valentine's Day with Valentines and gifts for the boys' amusement, in February again when they donated their regular twenty-five dollars for the upkeep of the institution, and at Easter when they sent attractive baskets filled with candy.

One of the most important projects of the year, the making of the portfolio, was carried out with greater success than ever before. A beautiful portfolio to which many of the departments of the school contributed, was sent to France after much careful work on the part of the members and students. With a trip to Opportunity Farm, the Council ended their year.

DEBATING SQUAD

Sitting: Esther Nicholas, Gladys Bickmore, Esther Woolf.
Standing: John Craven, John Jaques, David Dickson, Robert Hay, Robert Robinson, Muriel Googins, Marie Kahill, Edith Palmer.

DEBATING TEAM

The inexperienced Portland High Debating Team, due to the excellent coaching of J. Weston Walch and the excellent caliber of the debaters, emerged triumphant as State Champions.

The real test for the squad was their participation in the Southwestern Maine Tournament, which took place at Deering on February 15. Here Portland won eight debates, lost fourteen, and tied two. Following this, Portland engaged in two practice debates with Biddeford, and one with each of the following: Berwick Academy, Edward Little High School, Mechanic Falls, Bowdoin Freshmen, South Portland, and Commercial High School of New Haven. The last home debate was with Norwood High of Massachusetts which Portland won by a 2-1 decision.

In order to qualify for the Bates Tournament, it was necessary for Portland to defeat two outstanding teams, one representing South Portland and the other Biddeford. This Portland accomplished by aggressive work, a decision of 2-1 being rendered. On April 16th and 17th the Bates Tournament took place, and here for the fourth time in eleven years our team won the State Championship. Muriel Googins and Gladys Bickmore representing the affirmative, with Esther Nicholas and Despina Doukas, the negative, displayed an excellent knowledge of the subject, "Resolved: that all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated".

To Despina Doukas go the honors of being chosen the best speaker in three debates, while Gladys Bickmore was chosen the best in two debates.

HOSPITALITY COMMITTEE

HOSPITALITY COMMITTEE

Despite its extreme youth, the fame of this committee has spread rapidly since its organization last year by Miss Lilla Stetson. The principal duty of the Committee is to welcome new pupils to Portland High School, to introduce them to their teachers and classmates, and to make them feel at home. Some one of the members is often called to the office to greet a new pupil who has just been enrolled and is feeling lonely and friendless in a large school, or to show some visitor around the building.

Each fall, the members of the committee have given an assembly for the freshmen to acquaint them with the various clubs, musical groups, and athletic teams of the school. This year the assembly was presented in the form of a one act play depicting the experiences of a freshman, who had complained to his parents that he didn't like high school. In the principal's office, he meets the leaders of the various organizations and becomes acquainted with the extra-curricular activities of the school.

At present the Committee is at work on a handbook which will include several new features as well as the most important ones from the old book. These handbooks will be especially for freshmen and newcomers to the school as they will cover all points of interest about the school itself, the courses offered, activities, and other miscellaneous bits of information. However, the books will be available to all desiring them.

Although it does not receive much publicity, the Hospitality Committee, with its willingness to promote friendliness and good will, is rapidly becoming recognized as one of the most important and indispensable groups of the school.

DRAMATIC CLUB OFFICERS

Mary Catir, President; Virginia Jurgenson, Secretary; Beatrice J. Smith, Helen Libby, Elizabeth Lagdon, Catherine M. Ward, David Astor, Treasurer; Fordyce Downs, Clifford Libby, Vice-president.

DRAMATIC CLUB

To give every member of the Blue and White Dramatic Club the opportunity to take a part in at least one play, the membership is limited to the Senior Class students. The illness of the faculty supervisor, Mrs. Andrews, was a severe setback to the aims of the club, but Mr. Raymond of the substitute faculty, came to the rescue, volunteering to coach the plays. Under his capable guidance, the one act play "Rooms To Let" was presented at an assembly near the end of the school year. The cast included Pauline Cushing, Virginia Jurgenson, Frances Zolov, Ellen Zukunft, David Astor, Edward Turner, and Phillip Palmer.

The club was organized in 1934. At first only four officers were elected, but because of the increasing activity it became necessary to elect an executive board. This year the officers were the following: Mary Catir, President; Clifford Libby, Vice-President; Virginia Jurgenson, Secretary; and David Astor, Treasurer. The executive board included Elizabeth Lagdon, Catherine Ward, Beatrice Smith, Fordyce Downs, and Clifford Place.

During the existence of the club eight different plays have been presented in which much talent has been uncovered and cultivated. All participants have received useful experience in self-expression. Last year Max Cope, one of the outstanding members, as a result of his training, made a trip to Oklahoma City to compete in the National Dramatic Declamation Contest in which he won fourth place. Every year members of the club have received parts in the Senior Class Play, and the cast of "Absent-minded Judy" proves the efficiency of the club as a preparatory course for those more pretentious vehicles of the Seniors.

PHILATELIC OFFICERS

PHILATELIC SOCIETY

The Philatelic Society, although it is but a newcomer among the ranks of the school's many clubs, has displayed remarkable activity in its second year. It is made up of students who are bound by one common interest; namely, stamp collecting, and at present has enrolled thirty members. The interesting programs of its bi-monthly meetings are arranged by different members of the club in collaboration with Miss Ella L. Pennell, the faculty adviser. At the meetings, educational travel games are played and contests are held in which stamps are awarded as prizes. Sometimes papers are read and different stamps discussed. Not the least important function of the club is the exchanging of stamps, which takes place before each meeting. The members have been fortunate in having had several prominent philatelists of this city lecture before them on the various phases of stamp-collecting.

The officers are Estelle Long, President; Eleanor Keough, Vice President; Robert Stevens, Secretary; and Joseph Seigal, Treasurer.

The feature project of the club is its annual exhibition, held this year on March 4. The first prize was won by Annette Erlick, who submitted an artistic arrangement of United States specimens. Miss Audrey Jones, who was awarded the second prize, exhibited foreign stamps, while Josephine Starman won third prize by her contribution of the now-famous King Edward stamps. All the projects showed much thought and originality and the handsome and colorful exhibits posted in the school library attracted the attention, and elicited much favorable comment not only from philatelists, but from many who were not avid followers of "the king of hobbies and the hobby of kings".

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Sitting: Marie Kahill, Muriel Googins, Mark Arsenault.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Le Cercle Francais, this year completing its seventeenth successful year, is the only honor society existing in the school, the rules demanding that a student must attain an average of 85% or over to gain membership. Thus the number of members is small in comparison with that of other organizations. The rising interest taken in the study of the French language in the past few years, is shown by the zealous work exerted to gain this coveted honor.

The club meets once a month in groups, each with an adviser. At each monthly meeting, the roll is called in some uniquely different manner by the president. The monthly programs consist of plays presented by members, songs, and games. An attempt to better the student's information concerning French personalities, customs, traditions, and history is achieved by means of questionnaires and general information tests. These meetings are conducted and carried out entirely in French, the students taking great pride in their conversational ability and linguistic aptitude.

Usually there are two joint meetings during the year, one at which some distinguished person lectures on France, and the other, a dance and entertainment which ends the year's calendar. This year Madame Blanche Naples lectured on the French youth and customs, habits, and school life, explaining in what ways the life of the French student differs from our daily routine.

Mrs. Damren is the adviser of two groups, the presidents being Sampson Grunes and Mark Arsenault. Roger Dunbar is the president of Miss Welch's group; Muriel Googins has that honor in Miss Week's group; and Norma Stockbridge leads Miss Broe's group, assisted by able secretaries.

ART CLUB OFFICERS

Sitting: Alice Stevens, Secretary.
Standing: Yvonne Archambeau, Vice-president; Richard E. Lee, President; Jeanette Deering, Treasurer.

ART CLUB

The Art Club, under the supervision of Mr. Thompson, art director, is one of the most interesting organizations of the school and continues to increase in size and value. The department during the year has made many colorful and decorative posters including those designed for the TOTEM, the Senior Class Play, the Senior Farewell Dance, and the Junior Prom, and has made others of a contrasting type for the athletic teams of the school, such as girls' tennis, field hockey, softball, riding club, and basketball, for the purpose of inducing more pupils to try out for these squads. The club also entered The Community Chest contest, Ruth Lerman receiving honorable mention.

The making of posters, however, is only a small part of the work done. At every Christmas season, members of the club are busy making greeting cards. The high school card this year was designed by Mr. Thompson, as the department was late getting started on the project, but all other details were completed by members of the club. The Art Department also cooperated by helping the Red Cross Council in completing its attractive portfolio, an annual project, which will go, this year, to France. The cover design of the book was painted by Eleanor Keough. Decorative block-prints were also made for the portfolio by Art Department students.

At the beginning of the year, a dance was sponsored by the Art Department for the double purpose of raising money for special supplies, and of honoring the members of the great 1937 football team. So, under the stimulating leadership of Mr. Thompson, the Art Club closes another successful year.

NATURE CLUB OFFICERS

Ann Libby, Margaret Johanson, Rita Luja, James Samuels.

NATURE CLUB

The ordinary P. H. S. student will undoubtedly agree with James Russell Lowell as he questions, "What is so rare as a day in June? Then if ever come perfect days", but to the members of the Triangle Nature Club all months are fascinating, for these young naturalists find interest in all of Mother Nature's works. As each season rolls 'round they constantly search for some strange bit of plant or animal life which may be the nucleus of a discussion at the next meeting. Many and varied are the specimens brought by these ardent naturalists, ranging this year from insects of all varieties to a live porcupine.

At these bi-weekly meetings, during inclement weather, the members have at their disposal all the facilities of the biology room for research and study, and, when the weather permits, the meetings are held out-of-doors, where specimens are collected and the beauties and wonders of nature studied at first hand. During the year, the club members were guests at a meeting of the Deering Nature Club and they reciprocated by inviting that organization to one of their meetings. One of the more interesting field trips taken by the naturalists was a visit to the Portland Weather Bureau where the various instruments were shown and explained.

Although the Nature Club is one of the minor organizations of the school and does not boast a large membership, it has enjoyed a very active year and many of the larger clubs may envy its record. The officers for 1936-37 are James Samuels, President; Rita Luja, Vice-President; Margaret Johanson, Secretary and Treasurer; and Ann Libby, Chairman of Program Committee.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS

The Glee Clubs, under the supervision of Miss Emily Chase, began a very successful season by electing Arline Leavitt and Charles Blackwell president of the Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs, respectively, while the Mixed Chorus elected Constance Furbush as their president. Club membership is offered all students who are able to qualify in the reading and voice tests given each fall. Aims of the Glee Club are to teach choral singing, to develop a feeling for harmony, to become acquainted with the best music, to place special emphasis on dynamic control, diction, and interpretation, to function in as many events in the school as possible, and to enjoy the fellowship of singing classmates.

Following the tradition, the Glee Clubs presented the Pageant of the Nativity, written and directed by Miss Chase, as a Christmas gift to the school. Three performances were given—to the Evening School, to the students in the morning, and to parents and friends in the afternoon. The principal parts were portrayed as follows: Prologue, Muriel Googins; Narrator, Charles Ireland; Mary, Margaret Kimball; Joseph, William Ross; Archangel, Constance Furbush; Kings, David Dickson, Albert Millard, Robert Presnell, Jr.; Shepherds, Eric Sederquest, Warren Webster, Fred Branscombe; Shepherd boy, Richard Boyce; Soloists, Helen Pappas, Emily Comas, Charles Blackwell, Frank Catir, John Folan, and Josephine Amato, an alumna.

One hundred and forty-six members of the combined Glee Clubs presented their first annual concert at an assembly for the school. The program consisted of the "Viking Song" by S. Coleridge Taylor, "Just A Wearyin' for You" by Carrie Jacobs Bond, "The Bells of St. Mary" by Emmett Adams, "Dear Land of Home" by Jean Sibelius, sung by the chorus; and the "Gypsy Love Song" from "The Fortune Teller" by Victor Herbert; played by a trio consisting of Margaret Kimball, violin, Virginia Hall, cello, and Harriette Taylor, piano. Solos were sung by Earl Rackoff and Frank Catir. Helen Pappas and Emily Comas sang the "Indian Love Song" from "Rose Marie". Piano solos were played by Franklyn Young and Arline Leavitt. The program was concluded when the student body joined with the chorus in singing "America, The Beautiful".

The orchestra, also supervised by Miss Chase, has an enrollment of thirty members. In addition to practice on Monday and Wednesday these young musicians play at many of the assemblies and, of course, have a prominent part in the annual music assembly. Plans are now being made for the orchestra to present a recital and to assist in an operetta next year. Any student who plays a musical instrument is invited to join.

The band was fortunate in having Mr. Joseph Gaudreau as its new band master this year. Thirty students consisting of players of trumpets, cornets, clarinets, saxophones, altos, drums, baritones, trombones, euphoniums, and bass horns composed the group. It enlivened both football games and assemblies and had the pleasure of playing at a Portland Teacher's Association meeting last winter. Its performance was also a feature of the Senior Class Play, on May 7, and of the Cadet Ball on May 14 at the Exposition Building.

THE CLASSICAL FORUM

The Classical Forum is one of the oldest extra-curricular activities in Portland High School, being at present in its nineteenth year. It has had a membership of about three hundred for several years. Membership in the Forum is open to every student who studies Latin or Greek. The Club color, Tyrian purple; the motto: "Possunt quia posse videntur"; the constitution written on a scroll similar to the ones used by the Romans for books; and the titles of the officers of the club, consul, aedile, quaestor, lictor, all add to the colorful Roman atmosphere of the meetings. The Classical Forum Creed which follows, presents the beliefs and ideals of the club:

"I believe in Latin because it develops observation, accuracy, and concentration of mind, and thus lays the foundation for success in business and professional life;

"I believe in Latin because through translation, it trains one to express himself in English with clearness and force—an indispensable requisite for civic influence;

"I believe in Latin, because it familiarizes one with the history and the thought of the greatest nation of antiquity, the nation that furnished us with the basis of our laws and government, language and literature;

"I believe in Latin because there is no study in which one can find so strong a combination as this of thorough mental discipline, acquaintance with the language and civilization at the basis of our own, and the ability to express one's views convincingly."

CLASSICAL FORUM OFFICERS

First Row: Fordyce Downs, Pauline Cushing, Lillian Pedler, Franklin Young.
Second Row: David Dickson, Lloyd Gooch.

THE CLASSICAL FORUM

There are three meetings a year. The programs for these meetings are in charge of the members of the Latin Department in turn and much time, thought, and hard work are put into the preparation of the programs to make them the success they always are. A dance in the boys' gymnasium follows every meeting, and the last meeting of the year is always held there.

The first meeting of the year, held in November, was in charge of Miss Lois Mann. The theme of the program was "Home Life In Early Rome". Lloyd Gooch, consul, presided. The report of the aedile was read by Pauline Cushing, and the report of the quaestor by Lillian Pedler. An interesting part of the program was the description of different types of Roman furniture illustrated by quick sketches in chalk. Two appropriate tableaux, musical and dancing solos, and the reading of the Club creed were followed by a short play entitled "In A Roman Kitchen" which told a story of too many cooks.

The second meeting, which would have been late in March or early in April, did not take place, due to the illness of Mrs. Burnham who was to have charge of the program. But the annual Frolic in charge of Mrs. Paine was the usual success with balloons, noisemakers, colored streamers, a fine floor show, and an excellent orchestra.

The officers who presided at the meetings were David Dickson and Lloyd Gooch, consuls; Pauline Cushing and Priscilla Hayes, aediles; Lillian Pedler, quaestor; and Franklyn Young and Fordyce Downs, lictors. The faculty advisers included Mrs. Augusta B. Paine, Miss Mann, and Mrs. Burnham.

DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS

DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS

The Portland High School Drum and Bugle Corps, under the supervision of Mr. Stoddard, has just completed four consecutive years of constant activity. During this time, this most noisy of all school musical organizations has given several outstanding performances. They have appeared at many football games, have marched frequently in local parades, and have given impressive exhibitions at the Annual Field Days. Clad in white trousers and caps, with blue and red capes flowing from their shoulders, the group makes a striking impression on both the eye and ear.

This year, the corps demonstrated their musical and marching adroitness at two public events. At their first demonstration, the annual Thanksgiving football game, they were hampered somewhat by unsuitable weather, but, nevertheless, the bugle section performed creditably, lifting the dejection from the Deering section for an interval. Next, they were seen at the Cheverus-Portland basketball game where they were able to show their real ability. They marched and counter-marched with faultless precision on the spacious floor of the Exposition Building as they played spiritedly.

Three of the boys have given their whole-hearted support to the corps for the four years of its existence. They are Llewellyn Lamson, who started as a cymbal player and rose to be an efficient drum major the last three years; Robert Whitney, and Charles Gorman, who have been outstanding buglers.

CADET OFFICERS

Second Row: Adjutant Edward Quinn, Captain Robert Libby, Captain William Ready, First Lieutenant Albert Millard.

CADETS

Unprecendented enrollment, which necessitated the formation of a third company, Machine Gun Company 1, have contributed to an active and successful year for the Portland High School Cadet Corps. Since its formation, more than forty-five years ago, the Corps has served as a means for instructing the youth of Portland High in the military arts and sciences. It now constitutes one of the major activities of the school, numbering approximately one hundred and forty cadets and officers. Regular drill periods are held on Monday and Wednesday mornings.

The annual drill and ball was held on Friday, May 14th, at the Exposition Building, under the direction of Major Karl V. Palmer and was preceded by a concert given by the combined bands of Deering and Portland. The Portland High Battalion, commanded by Major Durward C. Brewer, was designated ranking battalion and so awarded the cup donated by the Harold T. Andrews Post of the American Legion. Company E., under Captain Thomas Kirby, received the ribbon to be attached to the company guidon for outstanding work. Medals were presented to Sergeant Edward Silverman as outstanding cadet, and to Captain Irving Anzman as best commanding officer. The Queen's Men, newly organized drill squad, under the direction of First Sergeant James Panages, presented their manual and trick drill with great snap and accuracy, thus winning for themselves a permanent place in future Cadet Balls.

CHEERLEADERS

CHEERLEADING

Under the leadership of Eleanor Rowe, the snappy cheering squad of Portland High School finished a year of hard, but excellent work. Cheerleading practice started early in September, continuing throughout the year. Two afternoons a week were given for practicing in marching formations, cheers, and letter formations. The seven girl cheerleaders were dressed in white sweaters, jackets buttoned in blue, dark blue slacks, and dark berets; the four boys attired in dark trousers and white sweaters. And not a game have these vivacious leaders missed! They traveled to Bangor, Lewiston, and Biddeford, and at only one football game did they witness a loss. But as a cheerleader's motto is: "Good sportsmanship," they continued to cheer their losing team.

During the basketball season the cheerleaders were present at every game, ready to support their team, the result being that every game was a success. Then came the Tournament! And there, ready to cheer, were Portland's faithful cheerleaders. They cheered until the end in a game, which in the eyes of the spectators was a most exciting and heartbreaking one, for the final score of the Portland-Deering game was 19—17 in favor of Deering. At this game again true sportsmanship prevailed, for our cheerleaders led cheers for Deering as well as for Portland, as there were no Purple leaders present. The leaders were well supported by the Blue rooters, and each year sees snappier cheers, and more stimulating work.

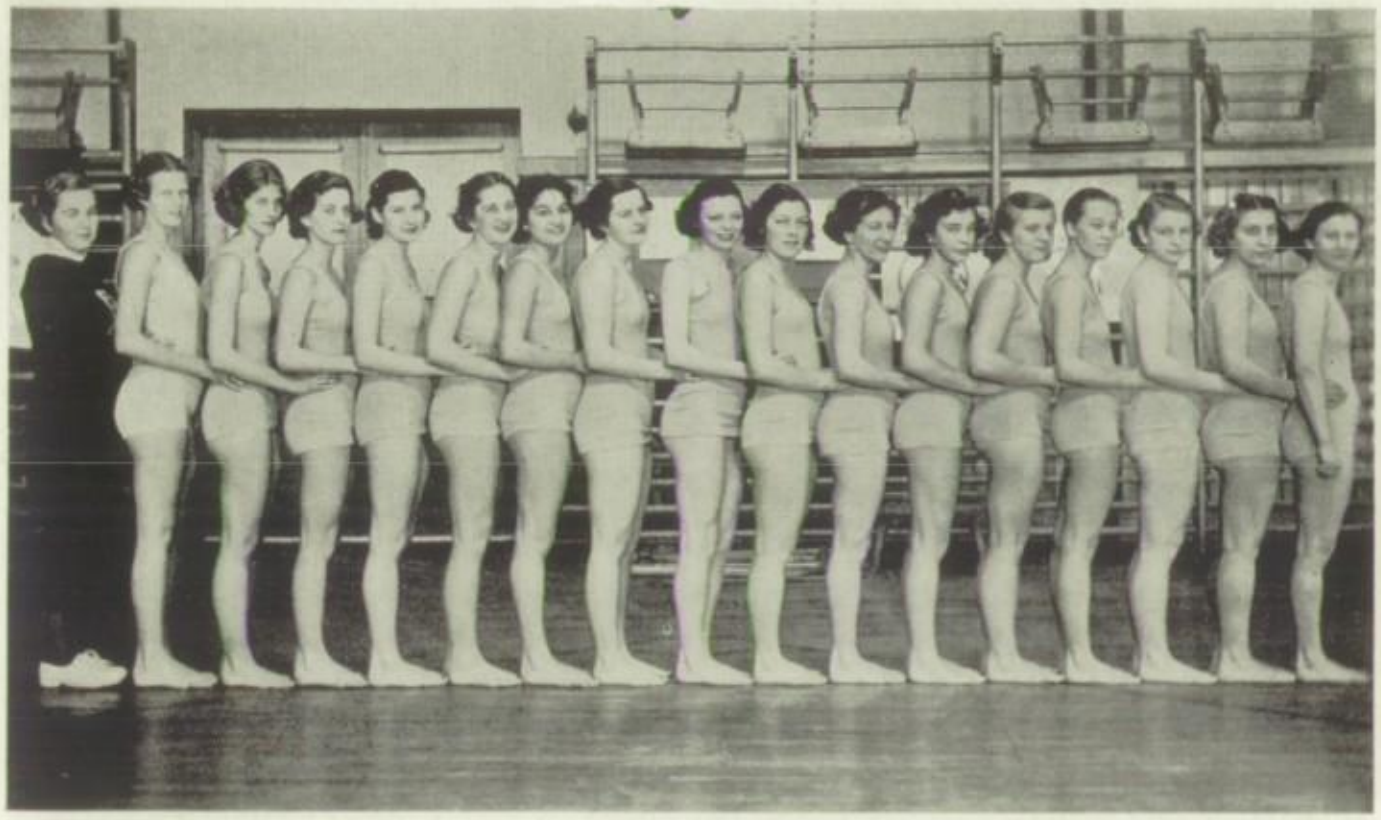
ATHLETICS



GIRLS' SWIMMING TEAM

Audrey Rendell, Norma Cope, Marion Blake, Rachel Knowles, Beatrice Lucas, Ann Hersey, Betty Greene,
Dorothy McLewin, Barbara Currier, Ruth Elliot, Betty Kaplan, Beulah McDowell,
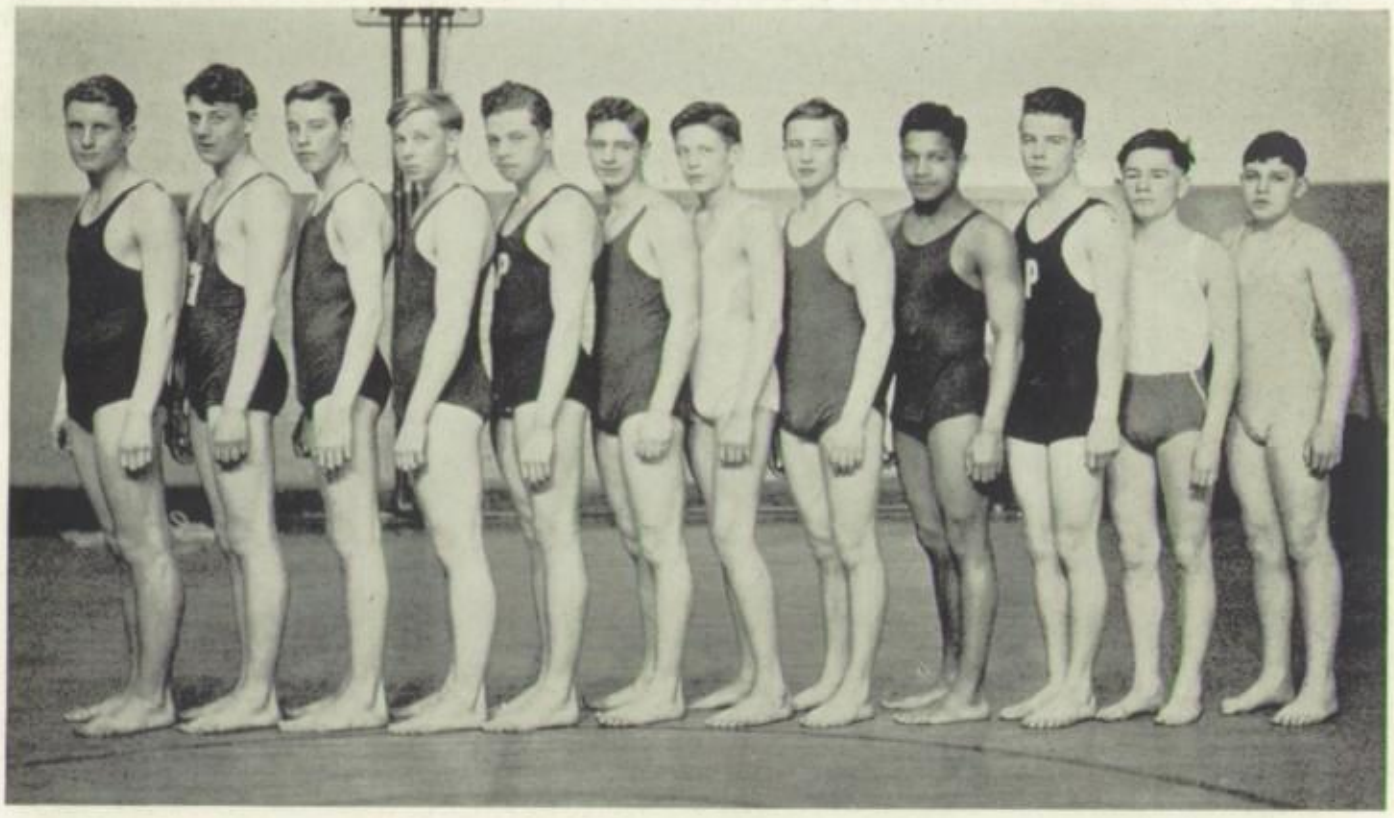
Ruth Fairbanks, Manager.

GIRLS' SWIMMING TEAM

The Girls' Swimming Team, under the direction of Coach Madeline Kingsley, captained by Dorothy McLewin, and managed by Ruth Fairbanks, this year enjoyed its most successful season. On March 26, they won the unofficial state title for girls at the Curtis Pool at Bowdoin by defeating Brunswick High girls by the score of 42-24. Previous to this meet, our mermaids entertained Brunswick High at the Boys' Club pool and splashed through to a victory of 40 points against 26 for Brunswick.

Because of the large number of girls who answered the call for girl swimmers, two teams were formed, a first and a second. Those who made the first team were Ruth Elliot, Audrey Rendell, Phyllis Russell, and Ruth Fairbanks, seniors; Dorothy McLewin, Barbara Currier, Betty Kaplan, and Beatrice Lucas, juniors; Marion Blake, Norma Cope, Margaret Crozier, Frances Reardon, and Ruth Russell, sophomores; and Ann Hersey, freshman. The girls held an interclass meet which was won by the juniors, sophomores, and seniors, respectively.

The outstanding swimmers for the season were Ann Hersey, who won a first place in both meets because of her graceful dives; Barbara Currier, who tied the Brunswick star free-styler; Beatrice Lucas and Betty Kaplan, swimming backstroke; and Captain McLewin, Rachael Knowles, and Marion Blake, free style swimmers. The 200 yard relay, consisting of Dot McLewin, Rachael Knowles, Barbara Currier, and Beatrice Lucas retained its clean slate by winning at both meets. This relay has been undefeated for four years. Thus the girls' swimming team is looking forward to another very successful season.



BOYS' SWIMMING TEAM

BOYS' SWIMMING

Portland High School's crack swimming team splashed its way to another state championship during the past season. This was the fifth consecutive year the Blue team has finished its season unbeaten. Portland handily won the State meet at Hebron by some thirty points over its nearest rival, Edward Little High of Auburn. The "Eddies" lay claim to the league title by virtue of a forfeit, but the result of the meet at Hebron leaves little doubt as to which is the superior team.

Coach Casey's 1937 swimming combine, although losing several point winners through graduation was, however, a well-balanced club. With the possible exception of diving, Portland's natators were strong in every division. Captain Roger Dunbar broke several records in his backstroke specialty. Warren Blake, next year's captain elect, and Louis Wilkins turned in some fast times in the 50 yard dash. Cecil Hinds and Bernard Samuels, both Sophomores, showed surprising ability in the 100 yard dash. Harvard Closson was the Blue's only diver showing promise, while Nunzio Giampetruzzi placed in the breast stroke event at Hebron. Charles Ferris, manager-elect, and Charles Griffin garnered several points in the 220 yard event. The medley relay team composed of Dunbar, Giampetruzzi, and Wilkins or Blake, and the free style relay team with Griffin, Blake, Hinds, and Ferris or Wilkins, were unbeaten, the latter team smashing the former league record.

Next year's prospects are particularly bright with several letter men and veterans returning, and Coach Casey is hoping to develop another strong team and thus keep Portland's swimming slate clean with another undefeated year.

BASKETBALL SQUAD

Standing: Coach Fitzpatrick, Joseph Cullinan, William Ross, Anthony Peverada, Joseph Fisher, Casper Tevanian, Manager.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Coach Fitzpatrick, working with a small, light squad, succeeded in molding another championship basketball team for the 1936-37 season. With diminutive Pete Colello, Wally Quinn, and Don Drossel as a nucleus, "Fitzy" issued a worthy second edition of his famed "Little Boy Blues". The five regulars of the combine were Pete Colello and Don Drossel, forwards; "Jenny" Lee, center; Wally Quinn and Johnny Moffett, guards. Carson, Peverada, Ross, and Brackett also saw occasional action.

Starting their regular season with a decisive win over a weak Thornton quintet, the Portland players displayed typical Blue magic in passing the ball around their opponents to score repeatedly. In the following contest with Deering, Portland again emerged on the long side of a 24 to 13 score. From then on the Blue juggernaut gained impetus with each succeeding game, burying its opponents with overwhelming scores. In the final game of the schedule however, the Purple Rams of Deering gave the Portland Bulldogs a hectic few minutes before Portland won the hotly contested struggle in an over-time period. This again gave Portland the Southwestern Maine Conference title.

In the Western Maine Tournament at Lewiston, Portland romped through its preliminary games, swamping its opponents, only to fall in defeat to Deering High's hard fighting basketeers by a single basket scored in the final minute. A heavier and taller team, Deering kept Portland on the defensive, and the Blue Bombers had no chance to capitalize on their clever passing. In a post-season game with Burlington, Vermont, runner-up in the New England Tournament, Portland again dropped the decision by a two point margin.

TRACK SQUAD

Second Row: Coach Corey, James Samuels, Frank Sabasteanski, Durward Brewer, David Dickson, Harold McLewin, Richard Lee, Theodore Morrill, William Gaskill.

TRACK

A brilliant season was ushered in at Brunswick, January 9, the Blue bowing to the Bowdoin Freshmen, 72½—22½. The Blue's speedy dash duo, Bob McGlone and Bill Gaskill, who snatched the two top spots in the 40, featured. The seniors spread-eagled the interclass field on January 23. The following week-end found the board pounders opening their interscholastic season at home with an overwhelming 117 to 33 triumph over Thornton. Deering, long dominant in local track circles, invaded the local oval on February 6 to fall prey to the sharpened fangs of an aroused Bulldog, which overcame the Purple threat by a decisive 97 to 53 margin. McGlone's tying of the senior 25 yard dash 3-1/5 seconds, and Captain Chapman's lowering of his own 250 record to 31-1/5 seconds highlighted a bitterly contested meet. The dual meet campaign was brilliantly climaxed on February 20, as the Blue boardpounders squelched South Portland's Red Riot by 94 to 56. Dickson nosed out Wallingford of the Capers in a sizzling 600, and the senior relay quartet of Gaskill, Samuels, DeGrasse, and McGlone set up a new record.

February 26 saw Portland High again restored to real track glory as the Blue captured the Four Cornered meet by a palpitating one point margin, 53—52 over Deering. McGlone and Gaskill sparkled, placing one, two in both the 40 and 300, with the former winning the George H. Vinal Trophy.

Seven points, all attributable to McGlone, who captured the dash and garnered fourth place in the 300, as well as sprinting splendidly to enable the baton men to win the Evening Express Relay Trophy, gave Portland sixth place on March 19 at the Bowdoin Interscholastics held at Bowdoin College.

HILL AND DALERS

TRACK AND CROSS COUNTRY

Not only did Portland High's 1937 track forces, boasting excellent balance fired by a rejuvenated spirit, stifle all local competition indoors to register their best record in recent years, but our Cross Country runners made track history during the fall season, in a spectacularly successful initial year. The squad, which enjoyed amazing success under the direction of Coach Ralph Corey, included William Glen, Weston Portas, Charles Chapman, Captain Frank Cruikshank, Ralph Cruikshank, David Dickson, Robert Kilbride, Durward Brewer, Lloyd Farr, and Marshall Santos, manager.

Designed expressly for developing distance runners, this team showed spectacular speed. The Blue harriers opened their grueling activities at Saco on October 14, soundly defeating Thornton Academy by the score of 18—34 with Frank Cruikshank and William Glen leading the pack. October 23 found the hill and dalers outdistancing Deering High and Gorham Normal School on the Gorham course to the count of 25—33—94. The Bates Frosh, however, proved too strong on November 3, and the Coreymen succumbed 34—19, but returned to Lewiston on Armistice Day to overcome the outstanding teams of Southern Maine in the first Bates Interscholastic Cross Country Meet. Portland, led by Glen and Farr, amassed 56 points as compared to 76 credited to the runners-up from Lincoln Academy. In appreciation of the squad's sterling efforts, a group of interested alumni provided funds for the team to compete in the New England Cross Country Run held at Providence, R. I.

GIRLS' HOCKEY TEAM

First Row: Ellen Corbett, Gladys Whitney, Lorraine Spiller, Nellie Lee, Mary Conwell, Captain; Dorothy Gooch, Helen Stover, Beatrice Meehan, Evelyn Call.

Second Row: Helen Williams, Dorothy Cole, Estelle Fraser, Ruth R. Russell, Edithe Thorne, Julia Bumps, Elsie Austin, Marjorie Jenkins.

FIELD HOCKEY

Fall again saw about ninety Portland High School hockey enthusiasts going into action at the Portland High Stadium under the guidance of Coach Dorothy Rowe and Mary A. Bosworth, and captained by Mary E. Conwell, an outstanding senior basketball and hockey player. The hockey team this year played two interscholastic games, Portland's rival each time being Deering High, which boasted a strong veteran team. The Portland lassies took a 2—1 decision over the Deeringites in their first game of the season, proving themselves superior to the Deering combine through their smooth passing attack which eventually won the game for them. The final game with Deering turned out to be the hardest fought game of the year, with Deering winning by a score of 2—1 after having been given a stiff battle by our girls. Deering's victory in this second game gave Portland's fast hockey club a well earned tie for honors this season because of their earlier victory over Deering.

Coach Dorothy Rowe maintained a varsity squad of about thirty players of which thirteen members were awarded letters. Those girls earning their letters were: Seniors, Captain Mary E. Conwell and Dorothy Gooch; Juniors, Evelyn Call, Helen Williams, Ellen Corbett, Estelle Fraser, Nellie Lee, Philomena Potenzo, and Edith Thorne; Sophomores, Lorraine Spiller, Ruth R. Russell, Dorothy Cole, and Marjorie Jenkins.

The chief advantage of this sport is that it affords girls of all classes an opportunity to compete in a sport requiring coordination of brain and muscle.

SENIOR ASSISTANTS IN GIRLS' BASKETBALL

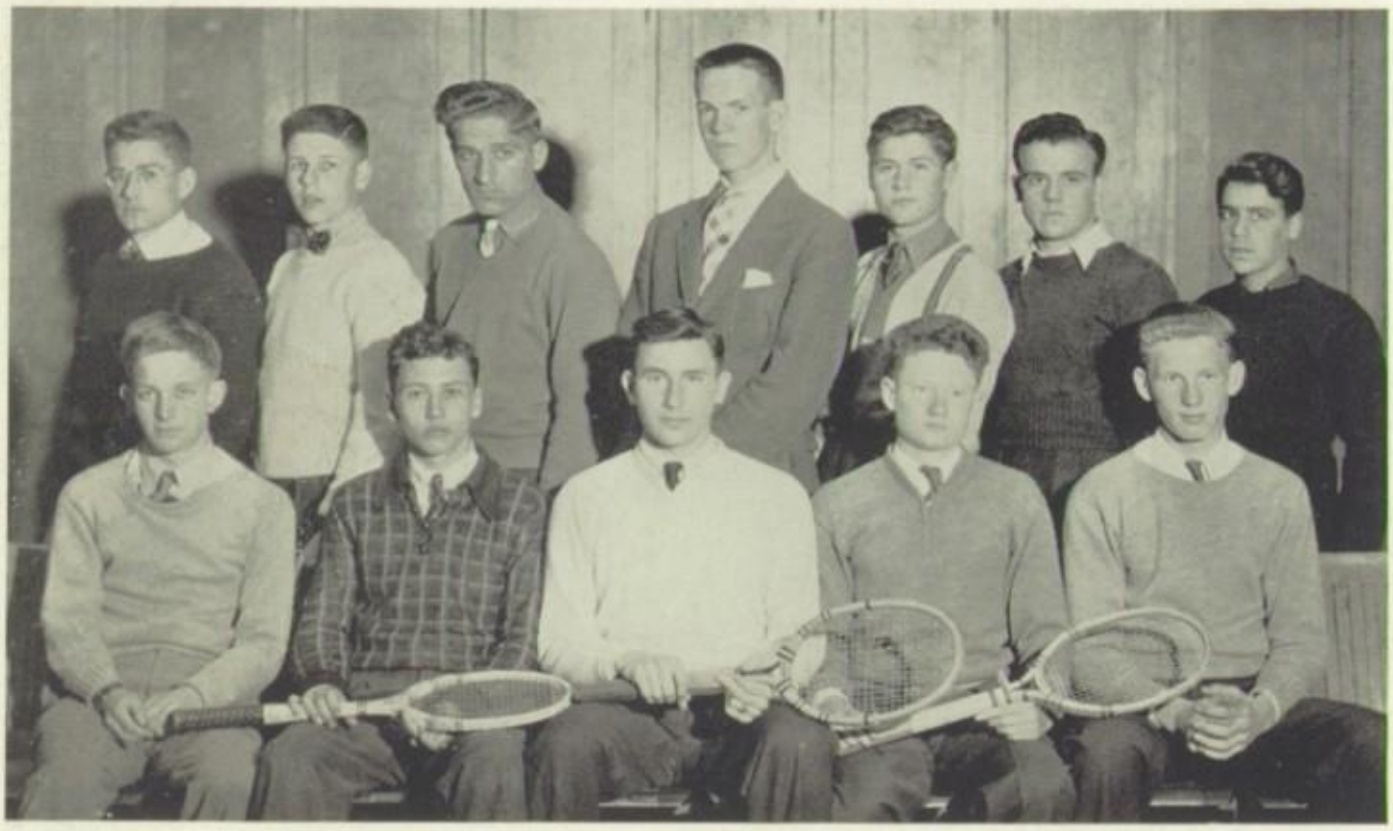
GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The Portland High School girls' basketball program this year has been confined strictly to interclass competition, interscholastic basketball having been discontinued. The chief aim of the new program is to create a condition whereby more girls may participate in athletics with equal chances of instruction. Thus, Coach Dorothy Rowe has met and trained three hundred interested girls in groups this year, Miss Mary A. Bosworth acting as assistant.

Credit must be extended to seven senior girls for their whole-hearted assistance by acting as referees and instructors. These girls were Dorothea French, Ellen Zukunft, Constance Furbush, Mary Conwell, Dorothy Gooch, Ann Naughton, and Jean Hastings, all members of last year's varsity squad. These girls have received the highest award attainable under the new intramural system which they helped to make a success.

This year twenty-two teams played through a seven game schedule which began January 11. The freshman class had the largest number practicing with one hundred twenty-five members in eight teams. The Senior room 203 chose the name "Blue Aces" and was captained by Mary Conwell. Room 210's official title was the "Blue Collegiates" who elected co-captains.

The Juniors chose some peppy titles for their teams: 213, "The Red Riots" captained by Anna Cayia; 214, "The Sunshine Girls," with Nellie Lee as their leader; 204, "Rams," led by Barbara Catterson; and 201, "Blue Bulldogs" piloted by Helen Stover. Equally as interesting names were chosen by the Sophomore and Freshman teams as each group vied for supremacy.



TENNIS AND GOLF

Sitting: Donald Herman, Clifford Libby, Stewart Shulman, Charles Ireland, John Lee.

TENNIS AND GOLF

The 1936 Tennis Team, although inexperienced at the beginning of the season, came through with flying colors. Under the tutoring of its volunteer coach, "Deak" Thompson, the team won five of the seven matches, as well as winning the finals of both the singles and the doubles matches in the Southwestern Maine Tournament. The players who accomplished this feat were William Pinansky and Don Herman. Pinansky won the singles and then teamed up with Herman to win the doubles. This year with three veterans, Herman, Ireland, and Schulman, holding the first three positions, in that order, and a flock of newcomers most promising of which are True, Libby, and Linwood Pinansky filling the remaining three positions, the prospects for another championship team are extremely bright. The schedule this year includes matches with the following: Hebron Academy, Bowdoin Freshman, Deering (2), Westbrook (2), Morse (2), Brunswick, and Houlton (tentative).

The Golf Team which is coached by James Fitzpatrick went through the 1936 season undefeated, winning ten matches and two trophies, one of which was for the State of Maine Championship. The players on this championship team were Frank Tirabassi, Captain; Arnold Parker, Ronald Murray, Francis Corbett, Ernest Sylvester, and Donald Hamilton. Having won their first three matches by overwhelming scores, the 1937 team is well on its way towards another undefeated season. The players this year include Tirabassi, Parker, Lee, Malia, and Beck. The schedule includes two matches with each of the following: Deering, Brunswick, Cheverus, Thornton, and South Portland.

BASEBALL SQUAD

Second Row: Manager Carlo Doria, William Keough, John Moffett, Joseph Labbe, Vernon Carter, Emilio D'Archangelo.

BOYS' BASEBALL

Exceeding even the brightest anticipations, Portland High's 1937 baseball squad, the "Dark Horse" of the Telegram League, has secured for itself the sunberth in that circuit by virtue of four straight victories to date, under the guiding hand of Coach Sibson. With either Mel D'Archangelo or Bill Keough toeing the rubber, Bob Seymour behind the plate, Joe Labbe, Captain Don Drossel, Joe Richio, and Johnny Moffett in the infield, and Fred Cressey, Pete Colello, and Keough or D'Archangelo, alternating in the outfield, the Portland team is formidable enough for any of the League competition.

In the opening game Portland met and defeated Deering in a rather weird contest which saw the Blue pile up an eight run lead in the early innings, only to have Deering tie the score in the eighth inning. The winning run was driven across the plate when Fred Cressey connected for a hit. The final score was 10—9. In the South Portland-Portland fracas, the Blue again came out on the long end of a 12—5 score, Don Drossel's brilliant fielding and stick-work featuring this game. Bill Keough next hurled Portland to a 9—4 victory over a favored Thornton Academy nine. Loose play accounted for many of Portland's tallies, but Drossel's bat clouted out five hits out of five tries. The Sanford game was featured by D'Archangelo's fine twirling exhibition in which he allowed but four hits. Added to this sensational support by Moffett, Colello, Cressey, and Sangillo, all proved too strong for the Sanford delegation who were forced to be content with a 6—3 defeat.

FOOTBALL SQUAD

First Row: Bernard Shatz, Stanley Sharpe, Leo Pinkos, Captain Joseph Richio, John Moffett, Edward Botto, Joseph Fisher.

Second Row: Assistant Coach Means, Cecil Hinds, Emilio Sangillo, Frank Sabasteanski, Arthur Perron, Raymond Smith, John Foley, Walter Quinn, Head Coach Flanagan.

Third Row: Assistant Coach Conroy, Clifford Allen, Warren Kerrigan, John Gardner, Robert Campbell, Edward Clinch, Iver Beck, John DeGrasse.

Fourth Row: Michael Gryp, Fernando Jiobbi, Neil Taliento, George Marston, Richard Carson, Louis Botto, Joseph Nappi, Thomas Griffin.

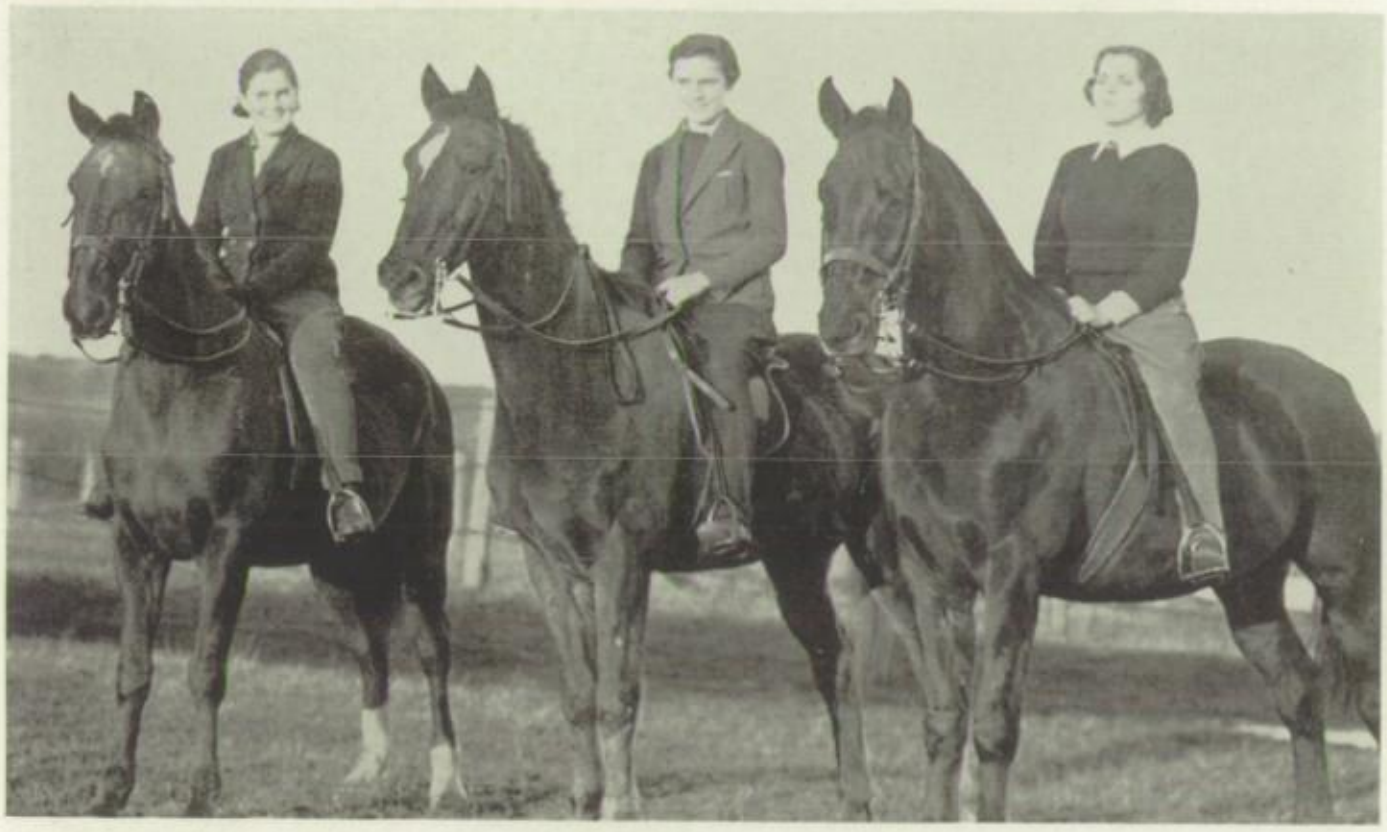
FOOTBALL

When Walter Quinn plucked Normie Sawyer's punt out of the murky air on Turkey Day and "snake-hipped" his way across sixty yards of muddy gridiron for a touchdown, he not only broke the Stadium jinx, but brought to a conclusion by that 7—0 victory, the most successful football campaign waged by a Portland eleven in many a month. The Blue now rates second in conference honors, and the books show seven victories, one tie, and one defeat. Brilliant line play, sparkling backfield performance, offensive as well as defensive, and an alert fighting spirit characterized Coach Flanagan's proteges. To Coaches Flanagan, Sibson, Conroy, and Means, and to Captain Joe Richio, and Johnny Moffett for scrappy leadership; to Dick Carson and Stan Sharpe, for steady excellence; to ball-carrying Walter Quinn; to Mel D'Archangelo and his trusty boot, go the plaudits of twenty-one hundred students.

Deering and Portland dead-locked 7—7 in the opening session, but next week Portland, at Biddeford, won by a narrow margin. A muddy day saw a 34—0 victory over Edward Little at Auburn on the following Saturday, but Conference hopes fell on October 19 when Thornton Academy scored a long touchdown. Bouncing back into the winning column they topped Westbrook 14—0; Bangor 16—6; and Cheverus 18—2, Quinn and Richio starring. In the last Saturday tussle of the year the Blue gave the Red Riot a decisive trouncing, tallying a 14—0, the first triumph over the Red and White since 1931.



THREE BLUE MOUNTIES

Alice Delano, Carolyn Nally, Barbara Quinn.

RIDING CLUB

In October, 1936, the "Blue Mounties", Portland High School's first riding club was formed by Miss Mary E. Bosworth of the Physical Education Department, when eighteen sophomore and junior girls made their equestrian debut at the Rines Riding School, Gorham. By Hallowe'en, however, the membership had increased in numbers and efficiency, and a supper ride was held. In early November, there was a breakfast ride and later in the month Betty Honan and Katherine Graff were hostesses at the tea held in the Home Economics suite, at which Mrs. Clinton Rines was the speaker.

The open winter gave many chances for practice, and in February an emblem, designed by the Art Department, was adopted. A member who has ridden ten times and has attended business meetings is eligible to wear this emblem which is a white horse's head on a black background, bearing the insignia "P H. S. Riding Club". Members must also conform with the eligibility rules.

In March, a moonlight supper ride was held and nine riders received the Mounties emblem. They were Caroline Nally, President; Barbara Quinn, Treasurer; Alice Delano, Secretary, and Marjorie Brewer, Jane Quinn, Katherine Graff, Rachel Knowles, Leah Kaatz, and Betty Quinn. A sunset ride, a moonlight ride, and a hot dog roast were enjoyed on April 8, 26, and 28 respectively. The first two weeks in May were spent in group riding practice, and the last two in preparation for the exhibition held June 5th at Walnut Crest Riding School of plain, fancy, and side-saddle riding, and an exhibition of saddling and bridling. The last school affair was held on June 12th when the riders spent a week-end at Watchic Lake, concluding a successful year with twenty-six members, booted and saddled.

MOST POPULAR

Three cheers—and an orchid for our petite popularity peeress, Eleanor "Wiggles" Rowe who squirmed to first place just two undulations ahead of firm-stepping Dot Gooch. Pauline "Dimples" Cushing was a close third as the contest closed for 1937, thus completing a trio unsurpassed in smiling personality, pep, brains, and good sportsmanship. And then we turned to the fight in the next squared circle where, under a blazing spotlight, Johnny Moffett and Joe Richio were fighting it out. Came the gong, the referee raised Johnny's versatile "paw," as the scorer tallied for him eight points over Joe. Don Drossell and Jenny Lee were also well up in the prelims, but faded in the finals.

BEST LOOKING

Swept to the throne of beauty by an avalanche of ballots, blond Arline Bates wears 1937's precious crown of supreme feminine pulchitrude. Winsome Helen Libby won second honors, with Louise Murphy and Esther Peterson as other strong contenders for the powder puff championship.

In an ideal shattering refutation of the unwashed ears, tousled hair attributes of athletes, four sport stars led the race for the handsomest male graduate. Don Drossell's raven locks took the girls by storm, with "Jenny" Lee's and Roger Dunbar's tow headed appeal, and Johnny Moffett's Grecian chiseled features drawing plenteous support.

BEST ATHLETE

Leading by half an eyelash, Johnny Moffett, unsurpassed team player in football, basketball, and baseball edged Don Drossell, hoop and diamond stylist, in a mad rush for masculine athletic honors, with Joe Richio, of football immortality, and Jenny Lee, court star, in close pursuit.

Gooch and more Gooch was the whole story of the best girl athlete competition, as Dot, supreme in field hockey, basketball, and tennis, finished umpty-ump city blocks in the van. Far behind, but undaunted, were Ellen Zukunft and Connie Furbush, co-captains of basketball.

BEST DRESSED

The smoke's still rising from this battle, but Mary Newman is now the Class of 1937's official style setter for girls. If the congestion becomes too great around this envied cynosure, copy Helen Libby's stunning gowns, Arlene Bates' snappy shoes, or Phyllis Potter's jaunty hats. The official masculine fashion plate is none other than dashing Kenny Kane, with flashy Henry Sawyer not far behind in sartorial excellence.

BIGGEST TALKER

It's a capital crime! It's a base affront to traditional male taciturnity! It can't be true! Yet it is! Yes, Edward "wind me up again" Turner eclipsed all the verbosity of the girls' champion chatterer, Muriel Googins, to win the solid pig iron medal as our most verbose classmate. Oh, dear me, suz. This is awful!

MOST COLLEGIATE

It must be those ties he wears! Or could it be those dappled rainbow stockings, or that unmuted jacket? In any event, Kenny Kane can now sport the title of 1937's most collegiate product. No one else was in the running for the dubious honor, but our Pauline Cushing and Anne Naughton polled one vote each as the ideal co-eds. What college are you going to, girls?

BIGGEST FLIRT

Petite Jean Murphy, who commutes each day from Peaks, vivaciously flirted her way to become tops in the coquette contest. Jean's running mate, Mary Duff, got all balled up in a three-way tie with Muriel "Bluffer" Googins, and Margaret Smith. Then Eleanor Rowe puffed up, red with excitement, just one point behind.

Kenny Kane, whose sartorial splendor was disputed by only one candidate, easily won male honors when he out-ogled Durward "There's something about a soldier" Brewer and Leon Pinkos. The "eyes have it," but, girls, they don't mean a thing!

BEST ORATOR

"Ladeez and gentlemen, your attention puleeze! We are about to announce the winnahs!" Muriel "Dizzy" Googins again has the first word, the last word, and most of the words in between, as she again catapults to oratorical heights seldom reached by the weaker (?) sex. David Dickson, versatile valedictorian, was the only other contestant even in the running, polling a superior vote for famed enunciation, pronunciation, and interpretation, especially in the field of extemporaneous oratory.

NOISIEST

"Honest! All the seniors were talking at once and I'd just decided I couldn't tell who talked loudest (and said least) and then Edward Turner's treble tenor made dulcet percussions on my eardrums and I realized that Edward had never once stopped for breath. But for that matter, neither had Muriel Googins who tied Eddie for perpetual loud speaker honors."

MOST BRILLIANT

Distinguished by admirable qualities, versatile, and possessing both brains and personality, David Dickson was practically alone in the "most brilliant" field. Clyde Crockett was mentioned by several, as was Alwilda Brewer, but Dave, who has ever supplemented natural brilliance with hard work, justly won. (Mary Duff evidently had one friend!)

MOST COURTEOUS

Chivalry may be tottering in many schools but it is still a virile youngster in P. H. S. where each year Seniors vie in the Chesterfield Sweepstakes. David Dickson was labeled most perfect gentleman by three-quarters of his class, but Franklin Young, Sabasteanski, Roger Dunbar, and Donald Drossell evidently have "had their moments" though perhaps less consistently than "Dave."

WITTIEST

"Bow to the wittiest, kneel to the prettiest, and kiss the one you love best." We have already knelt in homage to beauty; the third specification is strictly personal; but we now bow in deep humility before the scintillating humor of Franklin Young and the rapier-like wit of our Irish humorist, Pat Flaherty. Several discriminating students also recognized Dave Dickson's quiet, subtle humor and gave it due credit.

BIGGEST BLUFFER

A faculty list displayed 330 names, but the seniors went overboard in their rush to elect Muriel Googins as chief hot airess. Milford Cohen's warm exhalations drew wide attention, and Dan Hasson was well remembered. The chief surprise was unappreciated Durward Brewer in lowly fourth position. Don't they realize your unique abilities in this direction, heap big cadet?

NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY

College of Liberal Arts

Offers a broad program of college subjects serving as a foundation for the understanding of modern culture, social relations, and technical achievement. The purpose of this program is to give the student a liberal and cultural education and a vocational competence which fits him to enter some specific type of useful employment.

College of Business Administration

Offers a college program with broad and thorough training in the principles of business with specialization in ACCOUNTING, BANKING AND FINANCE, or BUSINESS MANAGEMENT. Modern methods of instruction, including lectures, solution of business problems, class discussions, professional talks by business executives, and motion pictures of manufacturing processes, are used.

College of Engineering

Provides complete college programs in Engineering with professional courses in the fields of CIVIL, MECHANICAL (WITH DIESEL, AERONAUTICAL and AIR CONDITIONING OPTIONS), ELECTRICAL, CHEMICAL, INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING, and ENGINEERING ADMINISTRATION. General engineering courses are pursued during the freshman year; thus the student need not make a final decision as to the branch of engineering in which he wishes to specialize until the beginning of the sophomore year.

Co-operative Plan

The Co-operative Plan, which is available to upperclassmen in all courses, provides for a combination of practical industrial experience with classroom instruction. Under this plan the student is able to earn a portion of his school expenses as well as to make business contacts which prove valuable in later years.
